

Heraeus Corporate Policy – EHS Policy
Version: July 1, 2018 Public use		Org. Unit: Environment, Health and Safety (EHS)

Heraeus Corporate Policy

EHS Policy

Heraeus, the technology group headquartered in Hanau, Germany, and leading international family-owned company formed in 1851, is committed to highest standards in the area of Environment, Health and Safety (EHS) as expressed in this Heraeus Corporate Policy.

Heraeus is committed to establishing an effective EHS culture and values which sustainably benefit our employees, customers, suppliers, surroundings and the environment.

Leadership

We encourage and motivate every employee to take ownership with the respect to their area of responsibility through training and effective communication to integrate EHS concerns and awareness into business decisions and daily work.

Guidelines & Procedures

We establish and promote EHS principles and standardized procedures to ensure a healthy and safe work place and an environmentally sound operation.

Processes

We maintain effective management systems in accordance with international normative standards to ensure reliable processes throughout the entire value chain of our products and services.

Responsibility

We comply with statutory and regulatory obligations to be a valuable, reliable and responsible partner for our employees, customers and the public. If, despite legal conformity, risks clearly threaten EHS values, we set higher standards.

By using this systemic framework, we measure and review EHS indicators transparently, derive actions and enforce EHS management strategies to ensure continual improvement, and support the Heraeus businesses in a sustainable manner.

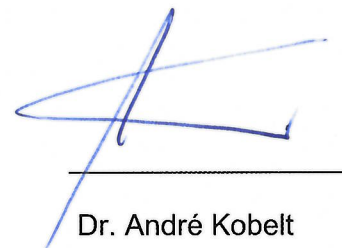

Jan Rinnert

Chief Executive Officer
(CEO)

Rolf Wetzel

Chief Financial Officer
(CFO)

Dr. André Kobelt

Chief Commercial Officer
(CCO)